Important Information:

Your Emerald Sleep System mattress has been constructed with the finest resilient upholstery materials to give you the utmost in comfort and support.

Mattresses are designed to conform to your individual contour. Initially, sleeping in one position may result in "body impressions" in the surface of the mattress. This is not a structural defect, but merely the localized compacting of the upholstery material. Only body impressions greater than 3/4" are considered a manufacturing defect.

Do not bend the mattress. This could damage the innerspring unit. It should only be carried flat or on its side.

A mattress pad will help keep your bedding clean. Do not allow your mattress to get wet. Protect it from water and other liquids.
